

The YAMweb®
International Learning Showcase Program

Recognizing creative teaching and innovative learning, *internationally !

The first international learning showcase project YAMweb® hosted was in 1988 with the People's Republic of China in association with the Shanghai Educational Publishing House.

How to Participate in the International Learning Showcase Program

Again, the program is free to any public or private school, or recognized education program, anywhere. Participants are required only to:

1. Signup for the program at <https://yamweb.org/showcase-signup/>.

(We must have this information to assure compliance with new-user privacy regulations.)

2. Have a single contact person (teacher/school administrator or organization director) to receive the digital award files for distribution to participating teachers, students and parents.

3. Participate in any (or all) of the Learning Showcase Project Challenges as they become available.

FAQ's

1. How many of the Learning Showcase Project Challenges may we do each year? As many as you want! (Why not all of them!)

2. Can student/teacher photos be added to the award certificate?

Yes! We can design the certificate to allow for the upload of an image.

- A. Make sure this action is within school/organization policy guidelines, and
- B. You have a signed parent release form for each student in the project.
- C. We will provide instructions for you to do this.

3. Can student photos be added to the eAnthology? Sorry, No!

How We Recognize Creative Teaching and Learning Achievement

Three elements have been designed to recognize all of the participants in the learning process: the schools, the teachers, the students and the parents.

1. A dedicated eAnthology for every completed project.

The publishing of student writing projects is what we have been doing since 1984. Now, it is fully digital and can be read on any digital device with the free Adobe Acrobat Reader. Since it is digital, it can be sent to the school/teacher for free distribution to students, teachers and parents. Schools may even post it to their Facebook® page for sharing with friends and followers.

2. Achievement Certificates for every teacher and student (including a smartphone and tablet version, suitable for a photo gallery or home screen image).

3. The publishing of every eAnthology in The Journal of Mobile Teaching for international review.

Our History

We began in 1984 as the Young Author's Magazine and soon became affectionately known to kids, teachers, and parents as YAM.

1. In 1988, we became the first American classroom publication to have a project exchange program with the People's Republic of China (in cooperation with the Shanghai Educational Publishing House).
2. In 1992, we became a resource for Assignment Discovery (the Discovery Channel's classroom cable program) and for four years we were highlighted on the Humanities segment, broadcast twice each month into school classrooms nationwide.
3. In 1996, we became the first classroom program to use Internet technologies (via AOL) as a classroom connection media.
4. In 2006, we became part of the UNESCO World Poetry Directory.
5. In September 2009, we received a registered trademark for our digital program, YAMweb®.
6. In August 2013, we began publishing selected poems, stories, and essays for viewing and reading on tablets and smartphones. This program continues today with an emphasis on critical thinking through creative writing.
7. In January 2018, we combined all of our resources into The Mobile Teaching and Learning Center.
